

When Louis Reinhardt passed away in 1998 at the age of 91, he left the legacy of what could easily have been the work of three lifetimes. A photographer of extraordinary talent and skill, Mr. Reinhardt photographed the Hindenberg Disaster, which ultimately led to his work as an official photographer for the United States Government. In this capacity he captured the images of several presidents and many military leaders and preserved for posterity events which ultimately illustrated the collective memories of our great nation. After his retirement, this committed Democrat used his formidable talent to chronicle the activities of the El Paso Democratic Party. We have been remiss in not including Mr. Reinhardt's name among those previously honored in this Hall of Fame. His contributions will be a valued part of our Party's heritage forever.
